Morning Session: Metrics for Research Infrastructure Performance

11:00am-12:30pm
Eastern

Panel Discussion on best practices for collecting, calculating, and reporting metrics. Can we develop a uniform approach across all Major and Mid-scale Research Infrastructure?

Good performance metrics help demonstrate whether a facility is reaching its goals. Panelists will discuss different performance metrics for Major and Mid-scale Research Infrastructure facilities. How metrics can improve operations and facilities management.

Panel includes:

- Matt Palanza, Ocean Observatories Initiative Program Engineer, Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution
- Tony Beasley, Director, National Radio Astronomy Observatory
- Benjamin Brown, Director of Facilities Division, Office of Advanced Scientific Computing Research, U.S. DOE.
- Joan Burkepile, Project Scientist, High Altitude Observatory, National Center for Atmospheric Research
- Vanda Grubiši, Lab Director, Earth Observing Lab, National Center for Atmospheric Research
- Dan Wilson, PI and Project Director, Natural Hazards Engineering Research Infrastructure
- Andreas Kaufer, Director of Operations, VLT, European Southern Observatory
